

Youth-at-risk (foster children, gangs, victims of domestic violence, bullying, substance abuse, etc).

Each child/teen and their story is different. During this individualized session we talk directly to the child, "meet them" where they're currently at in life and discuss the path they are presently on.

Often times this session would and should include family members/caregivers. We brainstorm on ways the child/teen can get back on track by taking their eyes off themselves and back onto others.

This session offers hope and ways to build your child's spirit and confidence back up. It also speaks frankly on natural consequences the child will have to face if they continue down the wrong path.